

MEDICAL STOP LOSS CAPTIVES

The right partner makes all the difference.

When it comes to healthcare, medical stop loss captives allow organizations to manage their risk more directly, which may yield significant benefits. Using a captive for risk transfer offers

- Flexibility in plan design
- Enhanced control over network utilization
- Input into cost containment programs
- A share in the underwriting results

For groups with good historical loss experience, a long-term strategic approach, and an active focus on risk management, a captive solution may be what you need to take your program to the next level – especially with the right partner.

Summit Re can help.

Why work with Summit Re?

Our experience using captive solutions runs deep, and we specialize in offering innovative, multi-level solutions. From designing and pricing the product to managing and administering the program, Summit Re offers tools, resources, and consultative guidance that can help you effectively navigate your captive solution.

We're with you all the way.
